

Lethal Fetal Anomalies Exception Postcard Order Form

Dear Legislators: Faith calls us to care, not condemn.

When parents face a terminal fetal diagnosis, they need compassion and support—not judgment and rejection.

Some pregnancies are diagnosed with lethal fetal anomalies—conditions where a baby will die before or shortly after birth, and treatment is not possible.

In these heartbreaking moments, families are called to make deeply personal, moral decisions rooted in love, faith, and conscience. Yet, under Texas law, those families are forced to leave our state to end their unborn baby's suffering.

Doctors—guided by their training, conscience, and oath to do no harm—should be trusted to journey with families through these decisions. Yet, under Texas law, doctors can face life in prison if they terminate a non-viable pregnancy.

Caring for families is a Texas value—our laws should reflect our values.

Make an exception for lethal fetal anomalies.
